

HTML Cheatsheet

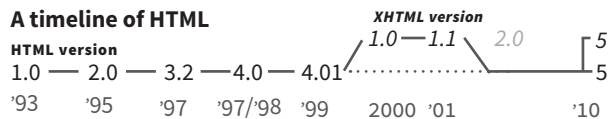

The structure of an HTML document

invisible stuff

visible content

A timeline of HTML

Useful Content Tags

Headings (h1 is biggest, h5 is smallest)

h1, h2, h3 ... h5

`<h1>A Headline!</h1>`

`<h2>A smaller headline</h2>`

Links*

a

``

Opens in same window

``

Opens in new window

*Used on text inside a p, h1...5, div, or other container tags

Lists

All list types (except definition lists) use li (list item) inside them for each list element

List types

dl (term/definition list)

ol (ordered (numbered, lettered) list)

ul (unordered/bulleted list)

Paragraphs

p, br (for a line break inside a paragraph)*

`Line 1 and Line 2`

Typography*

em (italic)

text in `italic`

strong (bold)

text in `bold`

u (underlined)

`underlined` text

Tables

Below: A bare-bones table; all that is minimally required is one table row (tr)

Right: A more complex table with header, footer, and body sections

table <table>

table row <tr>

table cell <td>

`</td>`

table cell <td>

`</td>`

table cell <td>

`</td>`

`</tr>`

table row <tr>

table cell <td>

`</td>`

table cell <td colspan=2>

`</td>`

`</tr>`

`</table>`

table <table>

table header <thead>

table row(s)

`</thead>`

table footer <tfoot>

table row(s)

`</tfoot>`

table body <tbody>

table row(s)

`</tbody>`

`</table>`